(b) (i) Fisheries ... A programme of improved production and equitable distribution of vitally important food resources is constantly engaging the attention of the Governments in the country. In view of the avowed policy of the Government of India to reach self-sufficiency in food by 1951, it is essential to evolve a policy as regards food production. The vital importance of fisheries development and the high nutritive value of fish need no emphasis. In order to compensate the shortage of animal protein in India, it is imperative that every attempt should be made towards the exploitation of our aquatic resources.

The expenditure that is being incurred on behalf of this section is very little as compared with its usefulness. We shall have to spend more if we have to derive full benefits of the aquatic food resources of the State.

(ii) Sheep Breeding. The Farms and Associations are rendering useful service to the sheep breeding public in grading up the local country and colour sheep. Supply of stud rams or improved breed, marketing of wool and surplus stock and rendering medical aid like dipping and dosing.

(iii) Beehives ... Apart from producing honey, bees play an important role in the "Grow More Food Campaign" inasmuch as they increase the yield of all crops including foodgrains by pollination. Bee-culture deserves to be popularised in the larger interest of the country's self-sufficiency in food.

(c) (i) Fisheries ... It is not advisable to wind up this section for the reason mentioned above.

(ii) Sheep Breeding. The matter is under consideration of Government. It is proposed to reorganise these Farms.

(iii) Bee-hives ... Vide serial No. (b) (iii).
